The great British takeaway

• Arrive home tired from work or school
• Can’t be bothered to cook or go out

1. What are the options – make a list of 10 food categories ..... e.g. Chinese; chicken;
2. How many of the 10 are ‘traditional British’ foods?
3. Where do you think these feature in the UK’s top 10?
   Rank your list from most (1\textsuperscript{st}) to least (10\textsuperscript{th}) popular
LEARNING IS SUCCESSFUL WHEN I ...

Know:
✓ How eating habits are changing
✓ That our diet is evolving as a result of our ethnic diversity

Understand:
✓ Why eating habits are changing
✓ The benefits a multi-cultural society brings to our food table
The great British takeaway – how did you get on?

1. Where did these foods originate? Recreate this table (see below) adding an extra column to show the country the food originated in.

2. How many of the ten are:
   a) English?
   b) European?
   c) Asian?
   d) American?

3. Takeaways – occasional treat or everyday life? Explain your thinking, having read paragraph 1 on p248

Changing Eating Habits

1. There are 4 reasons why our eating habits have changed. Record them in your books in order of importance, using no more than 6 words per bullet.

What type of food is this?
Where did it feature in the top 10?
What’s your favourite dish?
When did this food type arrive in the UK and why?

Why might other nationalities find our food boring?
The Indian that isn’t indian!

1. The number 1 favourite Indian dish in the UK is …….

Enquiry: ‘Gender plays a major role in the type of takeaway food we enjoy’

Investigate this by carrying out a class survey.

Remember to make it a fair and representative test! Present your results in an appropriate graph format. Present a plausible conclusion.
